

Steel framework rising for hospital project

October 13, 2009

Structural steel for first floor hospital addition.

Structural steel framework for the new addition at Boone County Health Center was rising above ground level last week. Contractors are working to get the building enclosed before the worst of winter weather moves in. Block work for the new ambulance garage was expected to begin this week, weather permitting.

Written by jdickerson · Filed Under News |