RE: Beckenhauer Construction

To Whom It May Concern:

On June 16, 2014, Pilger, Nebraska experienced devastation as two tornadoes tore through the town. Midwest Bank was one of many properties that were destroyed on that day. Plans to rebuild our branch were made within hours of the destruction with the guidance of Beckenhauer Construction. Their team was on the scene immediately helping us with the final demolition. This was a continuation of the partnership we formed with them and when the dust settled there was no question who we would use to construct our new building.

Beckenhauer Construction presented themselves well throughout the entire building process. If a problem would arise they were always right there, working with us to find creative solutions that best fit our needs. Aggressive timelines were set and met, allowing us to hold our ribbon cutting ceremony on the second anniversary of the tornadoes. Beckenhauer Construction provided the timely return of one of the cornerstones of a rebuilding Pilger community and for that Midwest Bank would like to recommend them for the Build Nebraska Awards.
